

San Jacinto Battleground & Monument Reminiscences - Velma Davis

When they were building the San Jacinto monument, I lived right across the channel from it. I lived in a 2-story house and watched them build it out my windows.

There used to be large picnic tables with covers near it where we would have church picnics. The small cemetery now near the battleship was across the channel. It had to be moved because of subsidence.

I can remember the church having baptizing across from the monument. Everyone would have to get out of the water when a ship came by.

The “star” on top of the monument was supposed to be specially designed so that it looked like a star from any direction. Many people thought it looked like a grass burr, however.

S.G. Battleground + Monument

When they were building the San Jacinto monument, I lived right across the channel from it. I lived in a 2-story house and watched them build it out my windows. # There used to be large picnic tables with covers near it where we would have church picnics. The small cemetery now near the battleship was across the channel. It had to be moved because of subsidence.

I can remember the church having baptizing across from the monument. Everyone would have to get out, ^{of the water} when a ship came by.

The "star" on top of the monument was supposed to be especially designed so that it looked like a star from any direction. Many people thought it looked like a grass bur, however.

Velma Davis